What do our clients and partners say...

"Urbancoms specialises in residential block management. Not only do they manage all of our phone systems in our offices, they also manage the phone systems at those blocks of flats where we have porters' phones, lift emergency phones, and so forth.

We have been working with Urbancoms for 5 years. When there is a fault it is rectified promptly, their technicians have the skills necessary to improve and rectify systems when we need that, and there has always been cost savings when we have transferred a new contract to them."

"We had enquired about switching a number of telephone lines away from various providers in order to streamline them under one provider. Not only did they offer a very competitive rate, they also handled the whole switchover process efficiently and hassle-free, which is exactly what we were looking for. They identified all the phone lines and what they related to, something which we did not have previously, making our administration much more accurate."

"Since we started using Urbancoms our lives have been so much easier if there are problems with any BT lines. We have started transferring a lot more of our blocks over because of the efficiency.

The biggest plus for us is when you call Urbancoms you get an answer straight away and not an automated service that ends up putting you through to the wrong department. This company has helped so much that we can concentrate on other important things."
